

Do you know that...

film-related tourism traffic is referred to as film tourism?

This phenomenon is called by terms such as set jetting, film tourism, and screen tourism, all of which mean traveling to the places where pictures for movies and series were made.

For a film tourist, the goal is to travel the trail of film heroes, including reaching the action locations of favorite or famous films and series, experiencing their atmospheres, visiting objects immortalized in the films and often taking a commemorative photo at the location of a particular scene. This way of spending free time is an unlimited source of travel inspiration, as well as a unique opportunity to get to know the details of film, series, and TV productions, along with the places that were their settings.

Film locations include both recognizable, characteristic places located on the map of the cultural and natural heritage of a given region, as well as unknown, non-obvious, sometimes custom-built places, such as the Hobbits' Village in New Zealand. Thanks to their use as film scenery, they take on a new, original meaning, gain popularity, and become tourist attractions.

GreenFilmTourism

GreenFilmTourism is an initiative to promote and sustainably develop the film heritage of the Polish-Slovak border area.

Do you know that...

over 1,000 films were made in the Polish-Slovak border area? Since filmmakers saw the potential of this area and began to produce well-known movies, film tourism has been developing more dynamically.

What do we do?

The GreenFilmTourism team has joined forces, competences, and knowledge to ensure that in the Polish-Slovak border area:

- ▶ an online knowledge portal with databases on film heritage will be created,
- ▶ a cross-border film heritage trail taking into account interesting places and film inspirations will be mapped out and presented, using a digital map,
- ▶ a wide educational and information campaign (seminars, industry meetings, study visits, social media, and a board game) will be conducted
- ▶ recommended pro-ecological solutions for future film productions, (guide, workshops) will be developed.

For whom?

The GreenFilmTourism initiative is implemented with consideration toward:

- ▶ tourists and residents,
- ▶ representatives of the administration sector, businesses, and social organizations dealing with tourism and cultural and natural heritage,
- ▶ representatives of film industry.

How are we financed?

The GreenFilmTourism project is co-financed by the European Regional Development Fund under the Interreg V-A Poland-Slovakia Cross-Border Cooperation Program 2014-2020.

Nosferatu: A Symphony of Horror, a 1922 film directed by Friedrich Wilhelm Murnau, is the oldest movie produced in the Polish-Slovak border area. It is the first significant horror movie in the history of cinema and at the same time the archetype of countless subsequent vampire tales. Shots for the film were made in, among other locations, the Žilina region of Slovakia.

Who we are?

GreenFilmTourism is implemented by six partners from Poland and Slovakia.
